in class/appserver/Application.properties i have changed my logback.xml file and application.properties Now i can see my logs in my console. Q: Who can I play with in the hood? We are allowed to play with the hood. Can you play with a hood? How much players can you play with a hood? How does a hood work? A: While the rules are kept intentionally vague, we can take this as a strong indication that a hood is meant to be used with a vehicle or another player. Now, there are two basic ways to play with the hood. One is by being able to put a hood over the heads of other players, and the other is by being able to use a hood to obstruct the view of the other players. Using a hood for obstructing the other players' view can be done in two ways. When you are hiding under the hood of your vehicle and suddenly you pop up like a jack in the box and reveal yourself to be invisible. A fairly straight forward way to do this. When you are being chased by a rival player and your vehicle has a hood. If they chase you, you are able to pull the hood over your head and give them a nice surprise. In my opinion the latter should be banned as it is unfair to the other players. If you are able to hide your presence from the other players, you have all the advantages of invisibility, i.e. sneaking around undetected. The only thing that prevents you from being able to ambush the other players is the fact that you have to crouch under the hood, making you less mobile. Using a hood for hiding can be done in two ways. When you hide under the hood of a vehicle and suddenly you pop up like a jack in the box and reveal yourself to be invisible. A fairly straight forward way to do this. When you hide under a vehicle's hood and suddenly appear behind them. Depending on the size of the hood and the height of the driver, it could be a bit tricky to manage. The first way is slightly easier to pull off because you can hide in the vehicle's shadow, meaning you can pop up quickly and reveal yourself to the player or players underneath. The second way is trickier, as the hood will be in your way when you pop up and are able to obscure your view of the player or players
